WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced today the United States will send advisers, tactical air strikes and other support for South Vietnamese operations in Cambodia. It called the move "a necessary and effective measure" to save U.S. and other allied lives.

The Pentagon thus confirmed an announcement by the South Vietnamese Defense Ministry in Saigon that U.S. combat and other support for a major operation in the "parrot beak" area of Cambodia jutting into South Vietnam about 35 miles from Saigon.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Daniel Z. Henkin read a statement to newsmen saying:

"The United States Military Assistance Command, Vietnam (MACV) in response to the request of the government of Vietnam is prepared to provide support for the South Vietnamese operations."

"This support will take the form of advisers, tactical air, air coordinators, medical evacuation, and some logistics assistance."

"Before the Republic of Vietnam armed forces launched its current operations on the Cambodian border, the United States government was fully consulted. The determination was made that the action is a necessary and effective measure to save American and other free world lives and strengthen the Vietnamization program."

Thus, the Pentagon—speaking for the Nixon administration—cast the new detachment in terms of supporting the over-all objective of shifting the Vietnam war burden to the South Vietnamese and gradually withdrawing U.S. troops.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., long a critic of U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia, took a different view, calling the action "a great mistake" and a "major escalation" of the Indo-Chinese warfare.

economy. "We have discovered that inflation is bad for stocks," said Sidney Homer, an economist for a New York investment banking firm.

In Washington, Nixon's message to the executive committee of the American Society of Association Executives was: "keep your faith in the American economy."

John L. Spafford, Houston, Tex., president of the society, saying Nixon told them they were free to pass on his words, quoted the President as saying: "I'm going to urge the people not to let such factors as employment being down, business being off and the stock market being down cause you to become deeply concerned to the point where you lose faith in the economy."

"It is a leveling off process. I'll tell you what is going to happen: You will begin to see, in the third quarter of the year, the economy leveling off. It will begin to turn, then in the fourth quarter you will begin to see more encouraging signs of the upturn."

As for the economy's troubles, Nixon was reported to have said, "The administration won't let it get out of hand."

Economy Issue at a Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here, at a glance, are major developments affecting the nation's economy:

—The stock market Tuesday continued its sharp decline, with the Dow Jones Industrial average dropping 10.82 points to 724.33, the lowest since the day President Kennedy was assassinated in 1963.

—President Nixon met at the White House with a visiting business group, expressed optimism the nation's economy will take a turn for the better this summer, and added: "Frankly, if I had any money I'd be buying stocks right now."

—In Dallas, Dr. Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said the economic slowdown that began last year should mean a leveling off of price increases later this year.

—The nation's largest three steel companies—U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, and Republic—reported profits dropped by more than 30 percent during the first quarter of the year.

—Labor Secretary George P. Shultz told a convention of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce in Washington he felt inflation will slow by the end of the year. Shultz also spoke out against collusive labor-management agreements he said feed inflation.

—The government's index of leading indicators designed to predict what the economy may do in the future declined by one-tenth of one per cent in March, after an increase of eight-tenths of one per cent in February. The index continued its erratic up-and-down behavior which began last September.

Reduction in Draft Calls Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's Vietnam troop withdrawals may lead to a reduction in draft calls this year to as few as 150,000 men, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird says.

The Pentagon chief told a group of business and civil leaders Tuesday "We will be able to further reduce the draft calls for this calendar year" to between 150,000 and 180,000 men.

The 150,000 figure is the lowest estimate yet made and it comes, according to Laird, as "a direct result" of progress in Vietnamization—turning more of the fighting role over to the Saigon government.

Nearly 290,000 men were drafted last year, but the rate has been sharply cut since late 1969 and induction calls through May of this year total 84,500.

Laird's new estimate indicates the monthly average of men taken in the military could drop to just over 9,000 through the rest of the year.

Discusses Law Day

JUDGE JOHN L. WILSON

In keeping with approaching Law Day—U.S.A., Judge John L. Wilson appeared before the Kiwanis Club at its Tuesday meeting, speaking on the law.

"We are all well aware of the fact that respect for law has changed in the last decade. The fact remains, however, that recognition of and respect for law and constituted authority are the only things that can make our Democracy survive," said Mr. Wilson. "The first recorded civil law code was given by Hammurabi in 2250 B.C., and a rather drastic code it was, but the pendulum has swung much too far in the other direction in our present day."

DECISION

being done to de-escalate," said Max Rich, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce in Salt Lake City. But he added any reversal in the withdrawal process, or anything indicating an extension of U.S. commitments in Southeast Asia, could carry political dynamite for the GOP.

Granting aid to Cambodia carries just such a risk for the GOP, many politicians believe.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said one panel member cautioned Secretary of state William P. Rogers Monday of the potential political effect of U.S. aid to Cambodia.

"If you do this, we can't elect a dog catcher," Fulbright quoted the unidentified GOP senator as telling the secretary.

Yet, many Republican leaders say Vietnam as a political issue is more help than danger to the Republicans.

"It's still a Democratic war," said Utah Republican Chairman Fred Wright. "They got us into it."

But the same morning, the Nixon-backed Salt Lake Tribune expressed disappointment with his latest war policy speech April 20, said it echoed the words of former President Lyndon B. Johnson and added:

"After his... address, John-son's war may have become Nixon's war."

Inherent in all of this is the politicians' belief that the war has become increasingly unpopular as its impact has touched the lives of more and more people.

Thus, many political leaders believe the longer U.S. involvement lasts, the more of a liability it becomes for the man making the big decisions—President Nixon and the Republican party.

contact the Federal Aviation Administration who will have to approve any use of the property. The people who have contacted the Industrial Foundation say they are representing a large, nationally known organization, whose name they were not at liberty to reveal, but whose requirements were 120 acres located near the air field with railroad and highway connections. These representatives have made two visits to Hope to look over the state before requesting an option to purchase.

The Board of Directors reviewed bids that were received on insuring the fleet of trucks, cars and equipment operated by the City. Only two bids were received, one from Mrs. Alice Roach of $2,572,000, and the other from Bill Ellis Insurance Company for $3,924,600. The insurance covers public liability to the extent of 50-100,000 dollars. The Board awarded the low bid of the Alice Roach Insurance Agency.

Captain Milton Mosler, District Commander of the State Highway Patrol, appeared before the Board to request permission to exchange the property where the district office is presently located for land at one of the I-30 interchanges serving Hope. The land they are now occupying was given to them by the City of Hope, but on the condition that it would revert to the City if they discontinued using it as a District Headquarters. The Board of Directors approved the release of this clause to permit them to move near the Highway interchange, if such an exchange can be made. The State Police Department has already authorized the construction of a new district office building and they would like to have it located near the interchange station.

A large group of people representing the Little League and Babe Ruth League Baseball programs were present to request that the City furnish funds to employ umpires. The city has paid the umpires for several years but this year, due to the many demands on the budget of the Parks and Recreation Department, has asked the baseball leagues to raise this money from sponsoring organizations. The group explained that it was too late in the year to revise their fund raising program, and that the loss of these funds, estimated at $600.00, would endanger their program. The Board of Directors approved the continuance of this payment for the current year. The Board of Directors explained that their action was taken because of the vast growth in the City Recreation Department. For the past several years the City has spent about 25 percent more money on recreation than the total taxes collected for all the City. This figure does not include electricity and maintenance of the electric lighting systems which is carried by the Hope Electric Department without any charge to the recreation program.

A representative of Stephens Investment Company was present to discuss a proposed expansion of Meyers Bakery. He was supposed to be accompanied by a representative of Meyers Bakery who failed to get here for the meeting. The matter was postponed until the next regular meeting of the Board which will be on May 12.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — "Julia" approaches the end of its NBC season literally awash with romance.

Last week Julia met a handsome young widower who, unlike the assortment of other suitors over the past two years, was not sent packing at the end of the episode.

In Tuesday night's episode, nurse Hannah Yarby was caught up in a golden years romance that promises to be picked up when the series resumes in the fall.

If the two widows in the series change their marital situations — and nurse Yarby faded out as the official fiancée of a rich shoe manufacturer from Syracuse, N.Y. — it would make a lot of difference in the mood and content of the scripts.

Lurene Tuttle, who plays the tart-tongued warm-hearted R.N., has been in New York recently helping her daughter and family get off on a protracted visit to England. She saved Tuesday night, however, so she could watch the September romance of Hannah Yarby.

"Hannah," she said, "is one of my favorite people. 'You may not be aware how much she has changed. At the start she was sort of a grouch and spent a lot of time complaining how much her feet hurt. Now she's much brighter and happier."

Hannah's romance was a surprise that "Julia's" creator and producer, Hal Kanter, arranged

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

COMMENTS ON COLLEGE CO-HABITATION

Dear Readers: When "good old Bill" turned out to be Billie Jean, the "Not That Modern Father" of the college man asked how other parents would react to a female room mate for their son.

Here are answers, not only from parents, but also from young people:

Dear Helen: I liked the following letter I clipped from a newspaper just about the time "Not So Modern Father" asked for comments:

Sir: "We are not promiscuous. We love sincerely. We don't think marriage is important or that what we are doing is wrong so long as we aren't hurting anyone. Our parents never lived by the moral code they preach. The world never has. We love without hypocrisy."

This in essence is the general defense of the "new morality" as it is touted in our magazines, newspapers, theaters, television and college seminars.

Unless he is depraved, man instinctively values the opinion of his fellowman. This accounts for the pretense of morality on the part of many who are not moral. Though it is a poor substitute for real virtue, lip service to morality is better than no service at all. The fact that hypocrisy exists today indicates that, while man has fallen far short of his moral and spiritual goal, he is still reaching.

The "new morality" is not for Miss Tuttle while, on doctor's orders, she took a recent temporary leave.

"It was all his idea—and he gave me my choice of three men he had picked for the part."

The actress, daughter of a minstrel man, has been acting since she was a child. She has been active in motion pictures and in radio. "Julia" is her third TV series. She played Mrs. "Life with Father," and had one of the leads in the short-lived "Father of the Bride."

In addition to performing, she is one of Hollywood's most respected drama teachers and coaches.

"I find teaching very stimulating," she said. "I think that talk about 'if you can't make it, you teach it' is ridiculous."

Bought Manhattan

Peter Minuit, a Dutch colonist in America, who was appointed governor of New Netherlands by the Dutch West India Company, landed on Manhattan in 1626 and, in the same year, purchased the island for $24 in goods.

new. It is as old as sin and hypocrisy. It has been conspicuous in the crumbling of every great civilization which abandoned its moral traditions and pretenses. It is, and always has been an escape from responsibility; it is an excuse for failure; it is a license for unrestrained self-indulgence. And it is, therefore, the greatest hypocrisy of all.—A.F.C.

Dear Helen: "Not So Modern Father" seems to object to his son's living arrangements with his girl only because they cause embarrassment to the parents. Instead, they should be thankful that their son is now being honest, and has decided "What they don't know won't hurt them" is for the birds. Face it: All these kids have done is to make an artificial weekend "live-in" a permanent, working relationship. They are not married because they are not ready for total commitment, and they understand the doubts they have might lead to a painful divorce.

As long as there are no children involved, Dad, don't pressure them and be thankful they are still your friends and are being honest with you.—Y.M.

Dear Helen: My daughter said she was going to live with a fellow at college. But when I announced that my gentleman friend and I had decided to follow her example, and added, "Do bring your boy friend down to make it a foursome over spring vacation—you two can have our back bedroom. . . ." she reverted to "old fashioned morality" fast. Result: We're both waiting for marriage. Isn't it strange, how children condone for themselves what would shock them green if their parents indulged?—WIDOW

Dear Helen: Young people today are looking for truth and honesty, not tangible possessions or phony titles.

A mature, intelligent, responsible couple can live together before a "legal marriage" to discover if they are mutually and truly compatible. My husband and I lived together a year. We then married out of respect for our families, but only after we were sure it would be a LASTING marriage. We've been married five years, which we consider six, and our love has grown each year. We stayed together through thick and thin, particularly through that difficult first year of adjustment, because of our love and respect for each other, not because of two signatures on a legal document.

NTMF should be proud that his son is concerned about the future and not just blinded by the romance of young love.—HAPPY WIFE

Homes Will Get Laser Equipment

By HOWARD BENEDICT

Associated Press Writer PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A government radiation expert said today that within a few years millions of American homes will have laser equipment, and warned that safety standards should be set soon to avoid a potential health problem.

Dr. Harold F. Stewart of the Southwestern Radiological Health Laboratory in Las Vegas said, "Lasers today do not constitute a major radiation source. But it is a fast-growing industry and now is the time to take appropriate protective measures. The federal government should alert the public to the potential hazards and set guidelines to eliminate them before they develop," Stewart said in an address prepared for a national conference on radiation control.

Lasers transform the energy of electrically excited atoms into intense pulses of light capable of traveling long distances. Such beams have traveled to the moon and back and have been used to cut through metal and diamonds and to perform delicate surgery.

Until a few years ago, Stewart said, commercial lasers were used almost exclusively by the military for such purposes as range finding, communications, and guiding bombs and missiles.

"In 1969, 39 per cent of laser sales were devoted to the civilian commercial market, and by 1972 this is expected to increase to 48 per cent," he said. "Soon

Clay Wants to Fight in Canada

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court here is considering a petition by former world heavyweight champion Cassius Clay requesting permission to leave the United States to fight the new champ, Joe Frazier, in Toronto, Canada, in July.

The petition does not give a specific date but says the fight would take place in the Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto at 10 p.m. "at any time during the month."

It says that 70 per cent of the money earned by all parties to the match from distribution and sale of the television and motion picture rights would be held in escrow for the court pending Clay's return.

As an alternative, it suggested that Clay post a $100,000 cash bond. The petition was filed with the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on April 22.

Clay is out on bail pending his appeal to the conviction on June 20, 1967, of a violation of the Selective Service Act. He was stripped of his title after the conviction.

The petition suggested that Clay be required to enter a specific port, travel a specific route and be accompanied at all times by U.S. marshals or other agents of the court.

Fairly Hits 2-Run Homer for Montreal

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Ron Fairly hit a two-run homer in the opener and a solo in the second game and Steve Renko pitched a six-hitter in the nightcap Tuesday night as Montreal won a doubleheader from slumping San Diego, 4-2 and 7-3.

The two-run homer by Fairly and a two-run single by Bobby Wine helped the Expos win the opener with a four-run rally in the eighth inning against Mike Corkins, 0-3 and Ron Herbel. Claude Raymond pitched the last two innings for the Expos to save the victory for reliever Howie Reed, 1-1, who pitched only one inning.

In the second game, the Expos reeled off three double plays to help Renko gain his first victory in three decisions.

A double by Wine and two San Diego throwing errors gave Montreal the first of two third-inning runs off loser Danny Coombs 1-1. A single by Don Hahn and a double by Gary Sutherland produced the other.

East Teams Take West in American

By TOM SALADINO

Associated Press Sports Writer
For one day at least—there could be no argument—the East had won the battle over the West in American League divisional skirmishes.

Tuesday was the day the East shone as they swept all six contests against Western opponents.

In the only day game, the Cleveland Indians started the route with a 3-1 triumph over Minnesota and were soon followed at night by Detroit, an 8-6 victor over Kansas City, Baltimore, 4-2 winners over Chicago, Washington, 9-6 over Milwaukee, New York, with a 7-5 triumph over California and Boston, which swept past Oakland, 2-1.

In National League action, Pittsburgh downed Chicago 6-1, Atlanta nipped St. Louis 3-2, Cincinnati rapped Houston 4-2, New York defeated San Francisco 5-2, Philadelphia downed Los Angeles 3-2 in 10 innings, and Montreal took a doubleheader from San Diego 4-2, and 7-3.

With the six victories Tuesday the A.L. East took an 18-6 edge over Western opponents this season. The Orioles lead the East pack with a 4-0 record while the Kansas City Royals, 0-4, have yet to beat an Eastern club.

Tony Horton, who said "I was just looking for the first ball that looked good to me," slammed a two-run ninth inning double, gave the Indians their victory over the Twins.

The slugging first baseman got his chance, when after one out, Harmon Killebrew dropped a foul pop hit by Ted Uhlaender, Uhlaender, with another life, slapped a single to center. One out later Vada Pinson singled, setting up Horton's game-winner.

Al Kaline's first homer of the season keyed a four-run third inning in the Tigers easy triumph, pinning the Royals with their sixth straight defeat.

Kaline cracked his blast after doubles by pitcher Joe Niekro and Dick McAuliffe and a single by Mickey Stanley. Stanley doubled home another run and McAuliffe, with another double, drove in a run as the Tigers led 8-0 before Niekro, 3-0, lost his shutout on homers by Kansas City's Lou Piniella and Paul Schaaf in the sixth inning.

Boog Powell knocked in all four runs in the Orioles victory. Powell, who belted White Sox pitchers for eight homers and a .459 batting average last year, plicky got started this season, slamming a three-run homer in the opening inning and added a run-scoring single in the fifth.

Co-holder of last year's Cy Young Award, Mike Cuellar, benefitted from Powell's belting, gaining his third victory while scattering eight hits, including a homer by the Sox' Bill Melton.

Frank Howard, Ed Stroud and Aurelio Rodriguez poled home runs in the Senators long-battle with the Brewers. Ted Savage and Danny Walton connected for Milwaukee. It was Walton's seventh of the season, best in the league.

Fritz Peterson knocked in three runs with a single and his first major league homer and Ron Woods added a two-run shot for the Yanks over the Angels.

Peterson, 2-2, was sailing along on a four-hitter, got within one out of completing New York's first pitching assignment of the season before being rocked. Ken McMullen socked a two-run homer and with two men on base, Steve Hamilton relieved the left-hander. Another run scored before the victory was secured.

Tony Conigliaro and Mike Andrews rapped solo homers to back the pitching of left-hander Bill Lee in Boston's narrow triumph.

BATTING—Tony Perez, Reds, slammed 10th homer this month, a major league record, and added an RBI single in Cincinnati's 4-2 victory over Houston.

Perez Hits Everyone in Baseball

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
His teammates have hot-hitting Tony Perez figured out which is more than you can say for the rest of the National League.

"He's hitting everything and everybody," said Pete Rose, an expert on the subject who has won the NL batting title in each of the last two years.

That's the straight-forward explanation. Bobby Tolan, another Cincinnati slugger, subscribes to a more mystical approach.

"He must be trying," said Tolan, "to get into the next higher league."

Whatever Perez has up his sleeve, he gave Houston more of the same Tuesday night, setting a major league record with his 10th home run this month as the Reds whipped the Astros 4-2.

Elsewhere in the NL Tuesday night, Pittsburgh slugged Chicago 6-1, Atlanta edged St. Louis 3-2, New York dropped San Francisco 5-2, Philadelphia edged Los Angeles 3-2 in 10 innings and Montreal swept a doubleheader from San Diego 4-2 and 7-3.

In the American League, New York topped California 7-5, Cleveland dropped Minnesota 3-1, Washington outlasted Milwaukee 9-6, Boston edged Oakland 2-1, Detroit defeated Kansas City 8-3 and Baltimore downed Chicago 4-2.

Perez' two-run shot shattered the 48-year-old record for home runs in the month of April established in 1922 by Ken Williams of the St. Louis Browns who tagged nine. Perez had broken the NL mark of eight shared by Lee Walls and Wally Moon a couple of days ago.

In addition to his homer, Perez had an RBI single and boosted his major league leading batting average to .461. He has 26 RBIs.

Gary Nolan rode Perez' heavy hitting to his fourth straight victory with Don Gullett providing ninth inning relief after a pinch homer by John Mayberry.

The Pirates ended Chicago's 11-game winning streak with two home runs by Manny Sanguillen and combined three-hit pitching by Luke Walker, Bruce Dal Canton and Dave Giusti.

Sanguillen tagged a two-run homer over the left field wall in the first inning and then reached the identical spot with the bases empty in the sixth.

Dal Canton rescued Walker from a fifth inning jam, then left the game with a pulled muscle and Giusti finished up. It was the Cubs' first loss since April 2.

Clete Boyer unloaded a two-run homer in the ninth, giving the Braves their victory over St. Louis. Mike torrez had been riding a 2-1 lead produced by Richie Allen's fifth homer of the year for the Cards until Boyer struck.

Dave Marshall, an ex-Giant, exploded a first inning grand slam homer and gave the Mets enough of a cushion to beat the Giants.

Marshall's shot keyed a five-run Met first and Gary Gentry went eight innings to earn his second victory of the year. He gave up six hits including the 602nd home run of Willie Mays' career. Tug McGraw finished up for New York, striking out two in the ninth.

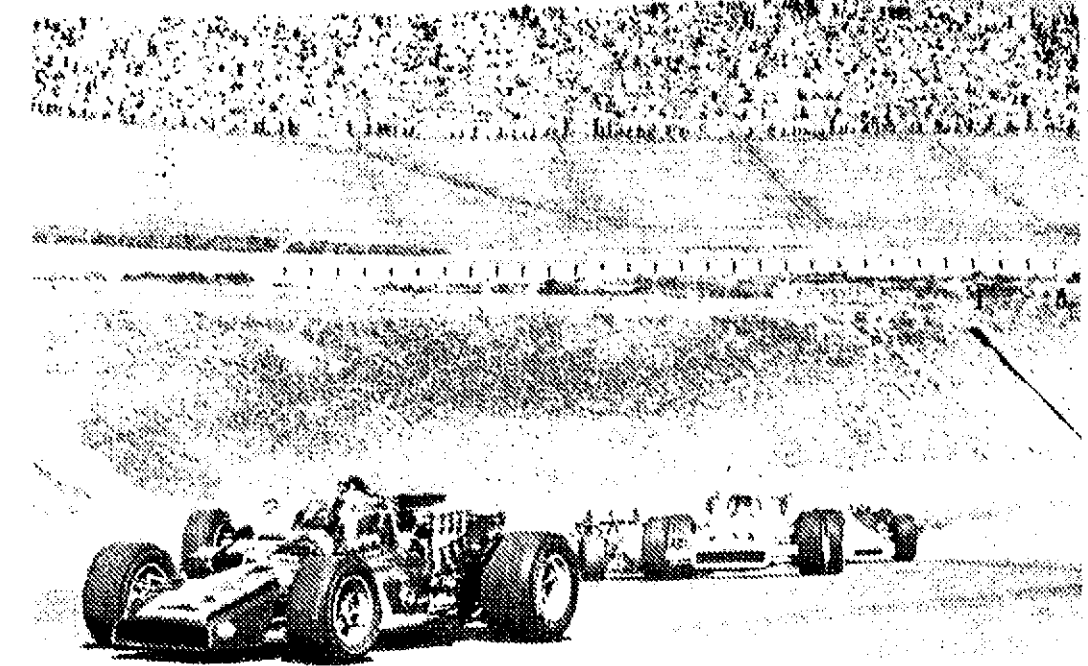

Larry Hise's two-out homer in the ninth tied the game and then a pinch homer by Rick Joseph leading off the 10th gave Philadelphia its sixth straight victory and beat the Dodgers.

Billy Grabarkewitz had snapped a 1-1 tie with a leadoff homer in the eighth for LA before Hise tied it again in the Phils' last gasp. Reliever Dick Selma earned the victory and finished the game at third base when left-hander Joe Hoerner came in to retire left-handed batter Willie Davis with the trying run on second in the bottom of the 10th.

Montreal bunched all its runs in the eighth inning of the opener to beat San Diego. Ron Fairly hammered a two-run homer and Bobby Wine's single drove two more across for the Expos. Steve Huntz homered for the Padres.

Fairly homered again in the nightcap and Steve Renko pitched a six-hitter as the Expos completed the sweep and extended San Diego's losing streak to six games. The Expos have won three straight.

Attention Centers on Chamberlain

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Talk about the Los Angeles Lakers and their chances against New York's Knickerbockers tonight centers on Wilt Chamberlain.

In New York, the 7-foot 2 veteran was panned after the first game and praised after the second. The series now stands at one game apiece in this best four-of-seven test for the National Basketball Association championship.

Jerry West scored 34 points in the 105-103 Laker victory Monday night but it was Chamberlain's neutralizing of Willis Reed that spelled the difference.

In the first game, Reed proved his right to honors as Most Valuable in the NBA, scoring 37 points in the 124-112 New York victory.

Chamberlain, they said, didn't come out far enough to stop the Knicks' center. His movement was still too restricted because his right knee, injured and operated on last fall, wasn't mobile.

"They'll find out how much movement I've lost before this series is over," vowed Chamberlain. He came on to score 19 points and grab 25 rebounds in the second game as Reed scored 29.

It might have been 31 except near the buzzer, Chamberlain went up and deftly blocked a Reed shot. That defensive move plus two free throws by West in the last minute clutch brought victory and the deadlock as the two teams square off again before a sellout throng at the Forum and other paying fans at various closed circuit television outlets.

Which Was Greatest in Baseball?

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The greatest baseball team of all time?

Some say it was the 1927 New York Yankees. Others vote for the 1931 Philadelphia A's and the St. Louis Cardinals of 1931, 1934 and 1942.

The 1954 Cleveland Indians get a little backing. So do the 1955 and 1956 Brooklyn Dodgers. And the 1961 New York Yankees, the 1966 Baltimore Orioles and the 1957 Milwaukee Braves.

In connection with a computer elimination contest, the National Broadcasting Company is asking fans and players to vote for their favorite team. The six winners will join the 1951 New York Giants and the 1969 New York Mets in a computerized tournament that will be telecast during the summer in pregame shows before the weekly Game of the Week broadcasts.

The '69 Mets and '51 Giants will meet in the first game May 9 with Sal Maglie pitching against Tom Seaver. Pertinent film clips of players and interviews will help the announcers create an abbreviated version of a game. Winners will advance in the eight-club competition with a finale scheduled for late August.

Members of the Hall of Fame and other outstanding players were invited to join fans in sending letters to a computer in Princeton, N.J. with their choice as the best team in the last 50 years. Over 2,500 letters have been received. The deadline is May 4.

There are some interesting selections. Curt Simmons, one of the great pitching stars of the Philadelphia Whiz Kids in 1950, voted surprisingly for the 1955 Dodgers.

Bob Friend followed the form chart by selecting the 1960 Pitts-

Haywood Is Best in Pro Basketball

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spencer Haywood, the Most Valuable Player in the American Basketball Association, has put the Denver Rockets into the Western Division finals in the ABA playoffs.

Although he was ejected for fighting in the closing minutes, Haywood scored 42 points and grabbed 18 rebounds as the Rockets routed Washington 143-119 Tuesday night despite a 52-point performance by the Caps' Rick Barry for an ABA playoff record.

The victory gave Denver the Western Division semifinal series, four games to three. The Rockets now will play the Los Angeles Stars in the first game of the Western finals in Denver Thursday night.

The Kentucky Colonels pulled out a 116-113 victory over the New York Nets Tuesday night to even their Eastern Division semifinal series at three games apiece. The deciding game will be played tonight at Louisville with the winner meeting the Indiana Pacers in the Eastern finals.

A record Denver turnout of 9,893 watched the Rockets roll over the Caps. Barry came to blows with Denver's Lonnie Wright in the last two minutes and when Haywood became involved he was banished for his participation.

Kentucky broke a 111-111 tie to go ahead of the Nets on Jim Ligon's free throw with 1:38 left. Sam Smith's lay-up with 54 seconds to play and Loue Dampier's two free throws with six seconds remaining sewed it up for the Colonels.

burgh Pirates for whom he was an outstanding pitcher.

Frankie Frisch, a shortstop on the 1931 Cardinals who beat the Philadelphia A's in the series in which Pepper Martin ran wild, voted for that '31 team for the reservation that he would switch to the 1934 Cards, whom he managed, "in a short series."

Although Charlie Gehringer, the Hall of Famer played on some great Detroit teams, he picked the 1927 Yankees as did Bill Dickey who came along later and caught for many famous Yankee clubs.

Other picks by great players included:

Lefty Grove—Philadelphia A's 1929.
Goose Goslin, Detroit Tigers, 1935.
Enos Slaughter, St. Louis Cards, 1942.
Hank Greenberg, Cleveland Indians, 1954.
Don Newcombe, Brooklyn Dodgers, 1956.
Gaby Hartnett, Chicago Cubs, 1929.
Lew Burdette, Milwaukee Braves, 1957.

Nobody has voted for the 1944 St. Louis Browns yet. But the polls are still open.

Players Will Go Two Ways for the Hogs

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)

— Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said Tuesday that several wide receivers would play for both teams in Saturday's Red-White game at Fayetteville.

The game will wind up the Razorbacks' spring practice. Broyles praised defensive tackle Dick Bumpas for his play in last week's intrasquad game at Little Rock.

"It is obvious Bumpas isn't resting on last year's laurels," Broyles said. "Bumpas played an outstanding game."

Split end Jack Ettinger, a sophomore-to-be from St. Louis, suffered a shoulder injury during Tuesday's two hour and 10 minute practice, but the extent of the injury was not known.

Player Late Entry for Nelson Meet

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — South African Gary Player was a late entrant for the $100,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic and immediately stepped into a role as one of the favorites.

The crew-cut, little Johannesburg rancher was undecided about his playing — traveling plans as late as the first part of this week, but made up his mind to extend his current American tour.

"I talked it over with my wife," he said Tuesday, "and we decided it would be best to play at least another week. We're getting pretty homesick for the kids, but this seems like the right thing to do."

Player originally had planned to return to South Africa after the Tournament of Champions, as he usually does after six or seven tournaments.

Player, enjoying one of his better years and probably the hottest performer on the tour right now, finished in a tie for second in the T of C in Rancho La Costa, Calif., last week and boosted his earnings to over $72,000 in just seven weeks in the United States, easily the best showing of the year.

He's the only one of the top four finishers at La Costa scheduled to compete in this 72-hole test that begins Thursday on the soggy Preston Trail Golf Club course, but joins a stellar field that also includes Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino.

Among the missing are Frank Beard, winner of the Tournament of Champions, along with Masters title holder Billy Casper and British Open champ Tony Jacklin.

Casper and Jacklin tied Player for second last week.

Palmer hasn't won this year but appeared to have his game shaping up last week when he finished fifth.

So does the awesome Nicklaus who has been in the top 10 in eight of his last nine starts. Trevino has won twice this year and heads the money winning list at about $85,000.

Arkansas Game and Fish

By JAK KAFFKA

CENTERTON — It's a woman's world — ask any man — and that makes matters even worse when it comes to walleye, as far as fishery biologists are concerned. Biologists trying to net male and female walleye for an egg-stripping and fertilization project have trapped plenty of females, but have not netted a sufficient number of males needed for sperm and egg fertilization.

In the past few years fishery biologists have trapped an excellent supply of both males and females in the White River below Beaver Dam and have artificially hatched several hundred thousand young walleyes each year at the Centerton State Fish Hatchery in Northwest Arkansas.

According to Raymond Martin and Larry Rider, biologists heading the walleye production project, "fertilization appears to be the largest problem due to the lack of male fish when the females were at their peak" for production purposes. Biologists ultimately secured sperm from walleye taken in Oklahoma and fertilized the eggs with some degree of success.

Biologists believe that the present dominant class of walleye is extremely short on the count of males and that the problem can be passed on down the line to the point that the egg-taking operation may have to be modified.

Patton Tells of Absence From Golf

By KEN ALYTA

Associated Press Sports Writer
PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Billy Joe Patton, playing in the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament for the first time in five years, explained his absence in a brief talk at the contestants' banquet last Saturday night at the Pinehurst Country Club.

"I didn't think my game was good enough to win," the three-time champion said. Then he added with an impish grin, "Well, I'm here now."

The Morganton, N.C., lumberman was still here today as the third round began, the fourth to follow this afternoon.

He shot par golf and finished with seven consecutive fours Tuesday to beat Dick Guardiola of Cleveland, 3 and 2.

If Patton is to qualify for Thursday's quarter-finals, he'll probably have to beat two players from Wake Forest University, his alma mater.

Steve Walker of Burlington, N.C., was Billy Joe's third-round opponent, with the winner likely to rip into Lanny Wadkins of Richmond, Va.

6,000 Northern pike in the 10-to-12-inch class, obtained from Minnesota, have now been stocked in Lake Norfolk. Three truckloads of the pike were obtained from a private fish farm near Peterson, Minn., in exchange for channel catfish.

Biologists are working with the yearling fish rather than smaller fish since its chances of survival are vastly improved. An insignificant number of fish perished during the 13-hour haul from Minnesota to the lake.

Fisheries chief Bill Mathis noted that the Northern pike were being released into Lake Norfolk to provide the lake with a specialized type of fishing. Lake Norfolk does not enjoy the lake fishing for trout that its sister lake, Bull Shoals, does, and the introduction of the pike provides an offset for the lack of trout.

FISH FARMING WORKSHOP SET

RUSSELLVILLE — In an attempt to interest farmers from the more mountainous areas in fish farming, the Game and Fish Commission is joining in a catfish farming workshop on April 25 at Arkansas Tech. The conference is being sponsored by the college's Biology and Wildlife Department, and will begin at 9 a.m. at the student center.

Speakers on the program include Commission biologists, county agents, federal and state agencies concerned with fish farming, and commercial catfish farmers. Topics range from pond construction and production to fish harvest and marketing.

ARKANSAS RIVER STOCKED

LITTLE ROCK — Prior to the Arkansas River navigation project, only a few species of sport fish were found in abundance in the river. Biologists conducted population samples and have learned which fish are plentiful and which are not. Since then, the Game and Fish Commission has stocked the river with largemouth bass, crappie, and bream where needed as each pool was impounded.

Pool No. 10, or the Dardenelle Reservoir, is among the oldest of the impoundments and has drawn a lion's share of the stocking. Nearly 3½ million striped bass alone have been stocked in the pool, along with several thousand crappie, bream, walleye, and largemouth bass. The pool, like most, contained a good population of white bass. Pools which have received additional or corrective stockings in addition to the No. 2 pool include No. 4, through No. 9, Pool No. 11, and No. 13.

Fishery Chief Bill Mathis said his division plans to check all navigation pools after the spring spawning season to determine the successful reproduction of game fish species, and new releases of fish will be made where needed.

Says Athletes Must Fight Drug Abuse

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Muscular athletes and astute coaches will soon begin to fight drug abuse with the blessing and financial backing of the NCAA.

The National Collegiate Athletic Council voted Tuesday to throw its weight and dollars into an antidrug campaign.

"We will fight drugs on NCAA sports telecasts and in programs at sports events," said Tom Hansen of the NCAA staff.

It was a precedent — setting step for the NCAA, which controls all big-time college athletics. Never before had it taken such a stand on social issues.

In other moves in its final session of a five-day spring meeting here, the NCAA Council punished the University of Massachusetts and Villanova University for infractions.

Massachusetts was handed a one-year probation for using 12 athletes that stood below the minimum 1.6 academic rating in its sports programs. The probation does not keep the Am-world's richest road race will be run at Watkins Glen in upstate New York this fall.

A $250,500 purse for the U.S. Grand Prix was announced here Tuesday at a news conference, where word was also given of several other precedents for the Oct. 4 classic for Formula One cars.

Chief addition is a new U.S. Grand Prix reward of $8,000 as an incentive to the development and construction of Formula One racers. Half of the money will come from the Formula One Constructors and Entrants Organization.

Cameron R. Argetsinger, in his last official act as executive director of Watkins Glen, announced the prize money and introduced his successor, Malcolm Currier, who had been press director for several years. The starting field for the race will be increased to 24. It has been limited to 20 cars for the past decade.

Currie said any driver still mathematically in contention for the world driving championship—decided on the 13 Grand Prix events across the world—would be guaranteed a starting spot. Also, any former world champion, of which there are five currently competing, is also guaranteed a spot. The Watkins Glen event is the 12th of the 13 title races.

Girl Scouts Put Skills to Work

The scene above depicts use of drinking and handwashing facilities made by lashing sticks with binders twine, one of the outdoor skills taught by Mrs. William J. King, Conifer Council field adviser, Wednesday through Friday at the Girl Scout Little House.

Leaders taking part were Mrs. Mildred May, troop 63; Mrs. Wayne Ward, troop 245; Mrs. Charles Bryan, troop 297; Mrs. Kenneth E. Petre, troop 311 and Mrs. Earl Whitaker, troop 75.

He scored 15 of his 16 regular-season goals during the first half of the campaign, then sank into the throes of a 34-game slump before connecting April 21 against the Penguins.

St. Marselle was at first believed seriously hurt when jabbed in the eye by Penguin Ron Schock's stick during the teams' third playoff game in Pittsburgh.

The injury, however, proved to be a laceration of the right eyelid, and the Blues' playmaker was kept out of action only the fourth game.

Eye-injured Player in Good Form

By PAUL LE BAR
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — The way Frank St. Marselle looked at it, a rap in the eye may have been the best thing that's happened to him in the National Hockey League.

The 30-year-old center, coming back from an eye injury, was never in better form than Tuesday night while propelling the St. Louis Blues to a 5-0 Stanley Cup semifinals victory over the Pittsburgh Penguins.

St. Marselle's first NHL hat trick provided the Blues a 3-2 edge in the best-of-7 series with the action shifting next to Pittsburgh Thursday night.

Dabbling gingerly at a sore right eye with a towel, the Blues' shotmaker explained his marksmanship.

"The chances come, and you just put them in," he said. "I like the way we played tonight as a whole. Checking-wise, we never gave that a chance."

Thomas said "Losing Kellar definitely hurts." Kellar also ran a leg on A&M's mile relay four- some.

But Thomas said David Prince made a fine showing in the 440 hurdles in the Drake Relays and could pick up some of the slack by Kellar's apparent loss.

Thomas said a number of his performers will run in three or four events.

Curtis Mills, world record holder in the 440, will run the rate his 21st wedding anniversary Wednesday.

Plante was called on to stop only 21 Pittsburgh shots and called improved checking by the Blues decisive.

Outside Pittsburgh's dressing room, Penguins' Coach Red Kelly said he still felt the Blues, who have won 15 straight at home against West Division NHL playoff rivals, could be had.

Aggie Track Hopes Suffer a Big Jolt

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Favored Texas A&M's Southwest Conference track and field meet hopes suffered a jolt Tuesday when coach Charlie Thomas indicated ace 440-yard hurdler Don Kellar will likely miss the league meet this week- end in Houston.

The Aggies had been counting on a strong showing by Kellar and good performances by a couple of field men to complement a potent relay and dash force.

Texas Soph Could Be the Champion

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — The next 17-foot pole vaulter from the Texas collegiate ranks could well be a sophomore at McMurry College who has made the most of home movies.

Several weeks ago, Ricky Parris called 16-foot-6-inches at Brownwood to become the state's fourth leading vaulter of all-time. He barely missed at 16-10 1/2 which would have left him second only to former Rice great and 1964 Olympic champion Fred Hanson.

Parris, a slender 5-9 and 149- pounder from the nearby suburb of Wylie, has some dedicated parents in Mr. and Mrs. Joe Parris who shoot film of every workout and track meet they can attend.

The movie film is studied in the same manner football and basketball coaches examine game film.

Wednesday, April 29, 1970

"You cannot possibly detect everything you are doing wrong when you are vaulting," says Parris. "We sit down at night and look the film over and I'm amazed at what little things I need to adjust to vault better."

Parris became the Lone Star Conference's first 16-foot vaulter in February when he went 16-0 at the Astrodomo Federation Meet in Houston. Since then he has gone 16-1, 16-6 and 16-2.

The success story of Parris is an interesting one. He decided back in the fifth grade that he wanted to vault. So he went out and cut down a bamboo pole and began vaulting over a four-foot fence in his backyard.

Later he advanced to a fiberglass pole in junior high and won every meet he entered with leaps up to 11-6. Then his father decided to buy some books on pole vaulting and became somewhat of an expert on the event even though he never tried it himself.

The books, a movie camera and some interested parents found Parris winning the Class A state title in 1968 with a leap of 14-0.

Parris' freshman year at McMurry was short of sensational, however. He didn't go 15 feet until the Ty Terrell Relays in mid May. He had finished a dismal fourth at the LSC meet in Kingsville.

Students Warned About Drugs

Mrs. Clair Reece Gladden, Mrs. Mary Parker, Mr. B.N. Holt.

"Unlicensed, drugless healers offering cure for cancer, arthritis, etc., cause untold harm," warned Mrs. Clair Reece Gladden, director of the Consumer Education Council of Arkansas, speaking before the last meeting of the adult consumer education class at Hope High School. Mrs. Gladden had several examples of products seized and removed from the market by the Federal Food and Drug Administration. The products ranged from those that sounded believable to the downright ridiculous. "Those who have been in prolonged pain will try almost anything for relief," Mrs. Gladden pointed out in explaining why there is still a market for the wonder cures and why the FDA and the consumer must remain alert and diligent. Reducing devices and diets, home improvement swindles, referral rackets, charity gyms, and other favorites of the con artist were also discussed by Mrs. Gladden. Her appearance was arranged by Mrs. Mary Parker of Hope who is the Council member from this area.

B.N. Holt of the Hope Chamber of Commerce followed Mrs. Gladden and explained what you can do locally to keep from being victimized. Hope has no Better Business Bureau but the National BBB has been of aid on complaints received by the Chamber. Our local police have also helped. Mr. Holt told of several incidents that had happened in the past and what had been done about them.

The adult education classes offered by the Home Economics Department continue with a class Monday night beginning at 7:00. Previous attendance is not necessary and all who are interested are urged to come and take advantage of this opportunity.

New Director of Draft to Rewrite Rules

By STAN BENJAMIN and FRED S. HOFFMAN

Associated Press Writers
WASHINGTON (AP) — New Draft Director Curtis B. Tarr is about to review—and perhaps rewrite—the 30-year accumulation of orders left behind by his predecessor, Gen. Lewis B. Hershey.

In an exclusive interview, Tarr said he wants to give local boards guidelines to make their decisions more uniform—a reform long demanded by draft critics.

Tarr's remarks—as veiled by academic caution as Hershey's were by folksy jokes—revealed a belief that after three decades of directives from Hershey, many local draft boards still are not sure how to do their job.

He said Keith McWilliams, a Des Moines, Iowa, lawyer, will become his chief legal officer within the next month, wading into the legacy of orders and memoranda to local boards and state directors.

Questioned on other aspects of draft policy, Tarr:

—Confirmed for the first time that President Nixon plans for an all-volunteer army of 2.5 million men, as estimated by a commission headed by Former Defense Secretary Thomas R. Gates.

—Said the administration does not want this army full of career soldiers, and anticipates volunteers will drop out after four to eight years and make room for young newcomers.

—Disclosed he is campaigning to make the membership of local draft boards younger and more "racially representative."

—Disclosed that a reduction in the number of local boards, which now number 4,087, is being considered.

In a message to Congress last Thursday, President Nixon sought pay raises and benefits to encourage an all-volunteer army. But he warned it could not be achieved quickly and said the draft should be made fairer in the meantime.

As a start, Nixon barred all future occupational, agricultural and parent deferments, and sought congressional authorization to phase out student exemptions.

Said Tarr, in the interview, "All of the other thinking that I know of concerning reform relates to administrative actions that we can take here and throughout the system."

He said McWilliams "understands that one of his first jobs is going to be to go through all of the information that is in the hands of people at the local board and is used as a guide for their activity—regulations, memoranda and all kinds of directives.

"We think we can improve the information in the hands of people at local boards and at state headquarters."

"We think that if we do this, it will lead to more uniform decisions throughout the nation."

At the same time, Tarr said he is trying to improve the local boards themselves.

"The President has made it reasonably clear to us that he would like to have the local boards more representative of the population from which young people are drawn and would like to see more youth in the system at all levels," he said.

"I am seeking to do this by visiting state headquarters, trying to impress state directors with the kind of philosophy we hope to have."

Local board members are appointed by the President upon recommendation by state governors, who Tarr said usually rely on recommendations from the state draft directors.

"The thing I was the most pleased about," he said, "was the attitude of the state directors in recognizing this to be a problem."

He said it is not a matter of "rooting out" present board members, but of making appointments to replace the 12 to 15 per cent who leave annually and to fill new seats when boards expand.

Tarr said the General Services Administration—housekeeper for the government—did some sample studies "and concluded that we could get along with fewer boards," Tarr said in answer to a question about reducing and consolidating the large number of draft boards.

This, too, has been a reform frequently proposed—most notably by a commission, which reported to President Johnson in 1967.

"They suggested a more extensive, more definitive study be undertaken and we have authorized them to go ahead in conjunction with the Budget Bureau," Tarr said.

Questioned on prospects for achieving an all-volunteer Army through President Nixon's $3.5 billion program of pay and benefits, Tarr said the administration does not really know how well the plan will work.

But he said military life "attracts a unique type of personality" who would prefer it over civilian life "given the freedom of choice and reasonably comparable economic opportunities."

Mrs. Barbara Calhoun, Mrs. Carrie Aaron, Mrs. Louise Churchwell, Mrs. Lucille England, and Mrs. Gladden examine some of the items removed from the market by the FDA.

Character Actor Ed Begley Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ed Begley, the veteran character actor who won an Academy Award for his portrayal of a Southern political boss in "Sweet Bird of Youth," died Tuesday night. He was 69.

Spokesmen said Begley dropped dead at a party. Details weren't immediately available.

His movies included "Twelve Angry Men," "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," "It Happens Every Spring" and "Sorry, Wrong Number."

He appeared on the stage in "Inherit the Wind," "Look Homeward, Angel," "Advise and Consent," "All My Sons," "What Price Glory" and "John Loves Mary."

A fifth-grade dropout and self-made professional, he was little known to the general public until he won his Oscar in 1963.

Recently Begley had appeared on a variety of television shows.

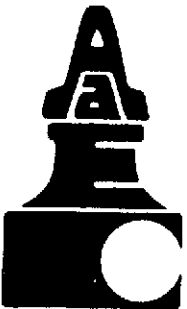

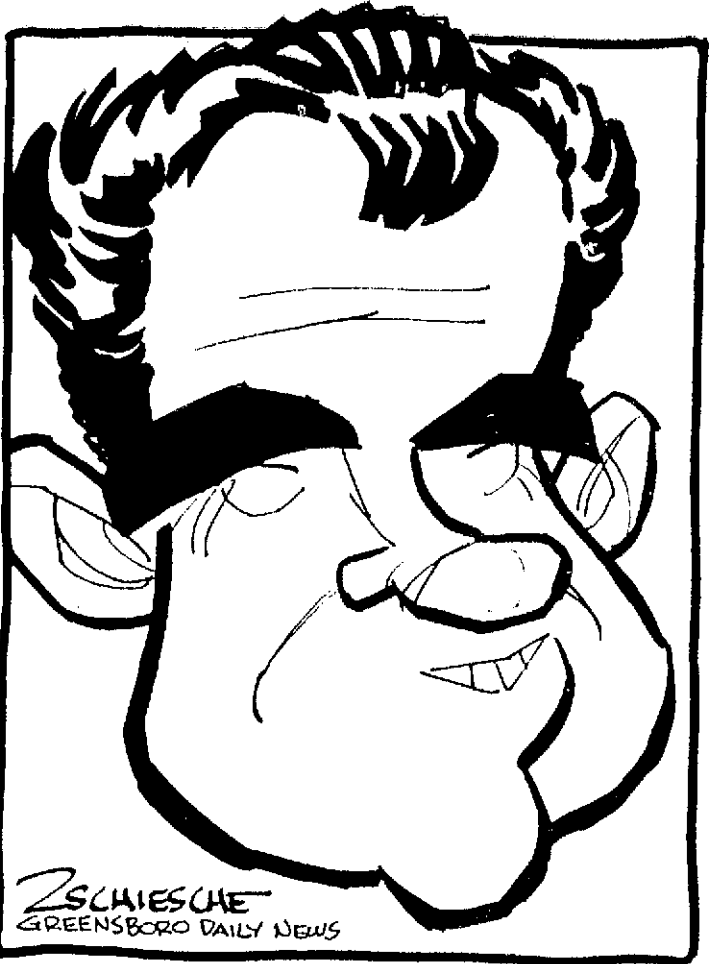

Born in Hartford, Conn., March 25, 1901, Begley began running away from home at an early age to work in carnivals and fairs.

He worked on network radio shows beginning in the early 1930s, then won roles on Broadway. By the middle 40s he had acted on more than 12,000 radio programs, playing everything from doctors to gangsters.

He astonished the critics in the 50s when on Broadway he played the two leading roles in "Inherit the Wind" on successive nights.

The Sketching of a President

It's not the kind of present which comes to everyone. However, it's becoming a tradition for the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists to offer their unique gifts to the President of the United States—in the form of a collection of their sketches of him. Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson each received such a volume.

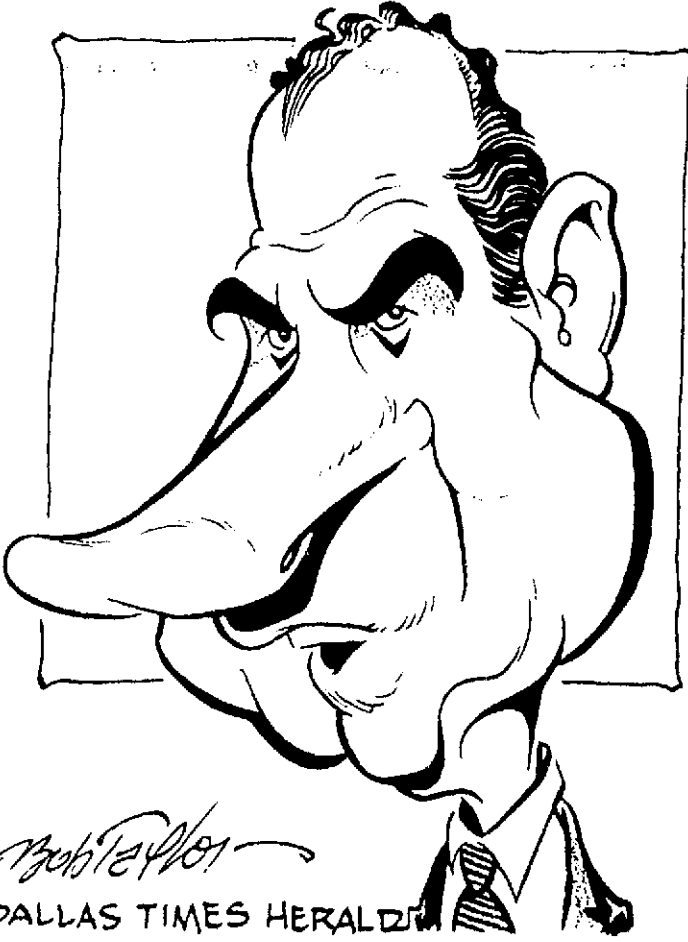

In September, 1969, members of the AAEC presented a leather-bound volume containing 74 original caricatures to President Richard Nixon. The book bears the gold Presidential seal and President Nixon's name on the cover. The photo above shows the President taking the jokes well. He's with officials of the cartoonists' association at the presentation which took place in his private study in the Executive Building in Washington, D.C. Three walls of the study are already covered with cartoons of himself which President Nixon has collected during his public life.

The cartoonists, from left to right, are: Jim Berryman, Art Wood, Gene Basset, John Stampone, John (Milt) Morris, Charles Brooks (AAEC president), John Collins, Gene Payne, Warren King and Hy Rosen. The members of the association are editorial cartoonists for newspapers and news services throughout the U.S. and Canada. The President was also presented with an Honorary Membership plaque and card (he'd been made an Honorary Member when he was Vice President).

'Whatever's Right'
Law Day
Cossatot Dam

A Washington dispatch to this newspaper yesterday reported: "The Federal Communications Commission today ordered an end to preferential telegraph and telephone rates for the press."

No industry relishes the chore of defending itself against the charge that it is being given concessions denied the rest of the public—at least of all the free and independent press of America—but the FCC is breaking faith with an unwritten contract between the federal government and the press that has existed ever since the founding of this republic.

The founding fathers, recognizing that newspapers were put to an expense over and above that of the general public in the publishing of detailed news about government voluntarily gave the press preferred treatment on mail rates, and, later, telephone and telegraph rates.

The tradition had its origin back in the days when we were an agrarian nation and newspapers were creatures small and poor.

Today, of course, the press is pretty well off—therefore government assumes it no longer deserves special help on the telegraphic transmission of news. But every citizen should know that the multiplication of government reports which we are supposed to publish runs far beyond our gain in revenue.

We are in about the same position as the average business house which finds itself not only paying higher taxes but is compelled to absorb the extra book-keeping which establishes the records on which the tax is based.

Obviously the FCC ruling is merely another step in government's invasion of private business. But unlike other businesses the press is in a position to strike back.

Some of the government's statements and reports are newsworthy—but much is unadulterated hog-wash.

I imagine most of the hog-wash will in the future be flushed down Drain 13—unpublished and unmissed.

Just before Radio Station KXAR's sign-off Tuesday night I heard a fine address on Law Day, which is Friday, May 1, delivered by former Chancellor James H. Pilkinton.

One of the points Mr. Pilkinton made was that while some court cases may drag along for six months in Arkansas they frequently run for years before the clogged courts of the metropolitan areas are able to resolve the issue.

You might say that the question can be equated with the amount of tax money appropriated and the size of the manpower employed—and this would be as true of police departments in attempting to control crime as it is of the courts in administering justice. I thought of this while Mr. Pilkinton was speaking.

The fact is that in the expansion of the American population and economy any reasonable study is apt to show we have shortchanged these two vital institutions—the police and the courts.

And that's an emphasis the observance of Law Day this Friday can't help but supply.

Pine Bluff Commercial, which has a genuine interest in protecting the wild rivers of Arkansas, helped mightily in defeating the plan to build the Gilbert Dam on scenic Buffalo River—in which anti-dam campaign The Star concurred.

But in its April 28 edition the Commercial supports the effort of one Wellborn Jack, Jr., Shreveport lawyer, to "save the Cossatot River, too." That the affected project is dear to our neighbor town of DeQueen is beside the point—the point being that the dam on the Cossatot is already under construction, with millions already spent.

I don't see any value in controversy once a dam is started. The Gilbert project was headed off in time. But for the Cossatot River, it's too late to be talking.

Quick Approval of Blackmun Expected

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A friendly Senate Judiciary Committee called Judge Harry A. Blackmun of Minnesota today before what shaped up as a one-day hearing on his nomination to the Supreme Court.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., Judiciary chairman, said with no opposition witnesses expected, he would call a meeting Thursday to act on the 61-year-old judge's nomination.

Blackmun, a member of the 8th U.S. Court of Appeals for 11 years, has the endorsement of all his fellow judges on the circuit and of the American Bar Association's federal judiciary committee.

The ABA committee reported in a letter to Eastland Tuesday that Blackmun "meets high standards of professional competence, temperament and integrity," its highest recommendation.

Blackmun was chosen by President Nixon to fill the seat vacated by Abe Fortas after the Senate rejected his first two nominees, Clement F. Haynsworth of Greenville, S.C., and G. Harrold Carswell of Tallahassee, Fla.

In response to requests by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., a leader in the fight against Haynsworth and Carswell, and three other Democrats, the Justice Department late Tuesday sent Eastland a list of all securities held by Blackmun at the time he became an appeals judge, all subsequent acquisitions and dispositions, and a schedule of present holdings.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst said in the letter Blackmun had never sat in any case involving any corporation of which he was an officer, nor in any cases involving parties he had represented as an attorney.

The letter stated Blackmun was involved in six cases concerning a client of his former law firm but Kleindienst said all fell within the ABA's ethical standards. In none of the cases, he said, was the party a client at the time the judge was a member of the law firm.

The investment list indicated Blackmun owns $52,691 in various securities, compared with $18,784 when he became a federal judge. The largest bloc of holdings is $14,972 in U.S. Treasury bills.

Haynsworth had far more extensive stock holdings than Blackmun, and Bayh and other opponents contended he had ruled in cases which gave at least an appearance of insensitivity to judicial ethics.

After Carswell's rejection earlier this month, Nixon accused the Senate of discrimination against the South and said he would turn to another area of the country to find a Supreme Court nominee who shared his view that the Constitution should be strictly interpreted.

Big Drive in Cambodia by S. Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — Thousands of South Vietnamese troops launched a new operation into Cambodia today with U.S. combat support, the South Vietnamese Defense Ministry announced.

A communique said: "In this operation the joint general staff of the Army of the Republic of Vietnam has requested and has got the support of the American forces in combat support, logistics assistance and medical evacuation, etcetera."

The Defense Ministry said the operation was launched "with a view to neutralize the North Vietnamese Communist scheme of using the Cambodian territory as operation bases to infiltrate, shell and attack the territory of the Republic of Vietnam."

The operation is centered in an area inside Cambodia shown on military maps as the "Parrot's Beak," west and northwest of Saigon.

Women Complain About Discrimination and Demand Even Shake

By CARL C. TRAFFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Women demanding an even shake with men at all levels of higher education are asking the federal government to close its multi-billion-dollar contract purse to colleges and universities practicing sex discrimination.

A leader of a national women's equal education rights group, Bernice Sandler of Silver Spring, Md., has filed charges under terms of presidential executive orders forbidding government contractors to discriminate by sex.

"The orders never had been used this way in the past," Mrs. Sandler said in an interview, "but we were watching what the blacks were doing and we came across a footnote that the orders had been extended to include sex."

"We're getting the colleges and universities to look at sex discrimination by endangering their pocketbook," she added. "Throughout the university community," she said, "there is discrimination in hiring, promotion, getting tenure, and the like, and women make substantially less in salary than their male counterparts."

"The discrimination extends to all levels—faculty, staff and student body," she added. "It has been going on for years and women have been complaining bitterly among themselves."

Mrs. Sandler, 42, married and the mother of two teen-aged girls, is a lecturer at the University of Maryland and chair-

Hempstead May Reach Blood Quota

Hempstead County has an opportunity to give as much blood as it has used for the first time in six years. When the Bloodmobile comes to the Unity Baptist Church Monday, May 4th, Haskell Jones, Bloodmobile Chairman, says that only 125 pints are needed to help the county reach its goal for fiscal 1970.

The program was in great danger of being lost as recently as July 1968, but now can be kept with the continued support of Hempstead County residents who must give if we are to have blood for all emergencies. The hours are 12 noon to 6:00 p.m. Monday, May 4th, in the Educational Building of the Unity Baptist Church.

Decision on Cambodia Key Issue

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's impending decision on Cambodia's military aid request comes against the re-emergence of Vietnam as an important national political issue.

Although many political leaders in Washington have said Nixon's Vietnamization policy has neutralized the political impact of the war, a recent swing through five Western states indicates the war lurks as a potential hazard for the President and the Republican party.

Vietnam always has been a key issue in such states as New York and California, but now it appears to be resurfacing in smaller, more conservative states.

On behalf of the league, she has been following up with specific complaints to the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare Departments against individual institutions she charges are discriminating against women in various educational practices.

Thus far, Mrs. Sandler said, "we're up to 43 individual college and university filings and we're hopeful the university community will start to take a hard look at itself."

The women are acting under the executive orders because ladies in academic life are not protected from sex discrimination under civil rights or fair labor standards laws, noted Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich.

HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch has assured Rep. Griffiths that employment practices of universities and colleges are being reviewed by the appropriate federal agencies which he said would carry out their responsibilities.

LITTLE ROCK (Special) Secretary of State Kelly Bryant said in Little Rock Friday that one of the biggest tasks in getting the state's proposed new Constitution before the people is still ahead.

Bryant's office will be responsible for seeing that approximately 800,000 copies of the proposed new document are printed and distributed through approximately 160 of the state's legal newspapers to the people at least 60 days before the general election on November 3.

The law also requires that the document be run as a "legal notice" in all of the state's "legal" newspapers. ## Believes U.S. Economy Will Steam Up

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid growing concern over the stock market's long and sharp decline, President Nixon again has expressed optimism the nation's economy will pick up steam this summer after a painful leveling off process.

"Frankly, if I had any money I'd be buying stocks right now," Nixon told a visiting business group Tuesday in an informal 35-minute chat on the troubled economy.

The President, said a spokesman for the group, said he will make a major report to the nation dealing with the economy and other matters in about two weeks.

As Nixon exuded confidence in the economy, Dr. Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said in Dallas the economic slowdown that began last year should mean price increases will begin to level off later this year.

In contrast to the administration's optimism, the gloom on Wall Street continued. The stock market dove again Tuesday and reached the lowest point in six years for the second day in a row.

The Dow Jones industrial average dropped 10.82 points to 724.33, the lowest since the day President Kennedy was assassinated in November 1963. The industrial average had fallen Monday by 12.14 points.

The market slump has been blamed in part on the business community's growing concern about the Nixon administration's ability to bring inflation under control—and also over generally poor earnings by major companies.

Big Industry Discusses Airport Site

Two zoning ordinances were passed by the City Board of Directors at their meeting Tuesday night. One ordinance established zoning classifications for approximately 1100 acres which was annexed to the city in 1969. The other changed some property on Highway 4, near the Frisco Railroad, from residential to commercial. Also, in this ordinance some property on South Main was zoned for commercial use.

The Board discussed granting an option to an industry for use of some of the airport property, located on Highway 4 near the airport. Representatives of the Hempstead County Industrial Foundation were present to report their contract with the proposed industry whose name has not yet been revealed. The Board authorized the City Manager to have the property appraised and surveyed, and to

Agnew Lashes Yale, Would Replace Head

By DENNIS FRIEL
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Blaming campus violence on faculties that fail to guide students, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has singled out Yale University and called for the replacement of its president.

Speaking at a $250-a-table Republican fund-raising dinner Tuesday night, Agnew declared: "The true responsibility for these aberrations and the nurturing of arrogance and contempt for constitutional authority rests not with the young people on campuses, but with those who so miserably fail to guide them."

"I can well understand the attitude of the majority of the student body at Yale University when most of the Yale faculty voted to endorse a strike in support of members of an organization dedicated to criminal violence, anarchy and the destruction of the United States of America."

This was a reference to the Black Panthers, eight of whose members face trial on murder and kidnaping charges in New Haven.

"And," Agnew added, "when the president of that respected university describes the election of a president of the United States by the people of the United States as a 'hucksterized process' under which they could not expect much better 'whatever package was bought or sold,' it is clearly time for the alumni of that fine old college to demand that it be headed by a more mature and responsible person."

President Kingman Brewster of Yale has also stated that "it does not seem that black revolutionaries can get a fair trial within our judicial system."

"I do not feel that the students of Yale University can get a fair impression of their country under the tutelage of Kingman Brewster."

There was no immediate comment from Brewster.

The vice president said American universities have become a spawning ground and sanctuary for revolution and rebellion. He proposed a nine-point program for handling what he called "the criminal left."

Agnew's proposals included: —Establish a clear set of rules for campus conduct with immediate expulsion for serious violations.

Kennedy Case Open to the Public

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The courtroom record unfolds at last to day on the inquiry into events of the summer night Mary Jo Kopechne died in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's automobile.

Suffolk County Superior Court was to release the transcript and the findings of a secret inquest held in January into the drowning of the 28-year-old secretary.

She was killed last July 18 when Kennedy's car plunged from a narrow bridge on Chappaquiddick Island and overturned into a pond below.

Kennedy failed to report the accident for more than 10 hours, a delay he later termed indefensible. He pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident, received a two-month suspended jail sentence and a year's probation.

The 764-page transcript and the 12-page report of Judge James A. Boyle, who presided behind the closed doors of Edgartown District Court, represent the last official installment in a case that shook American politics.

In the bleak aftermath of the accident, Kennedy said he was considering resigning from the Senate and asked the people of Massachusetts to register their opinions. He received a predictable vote of confidence, in an outpouring of letters and telegrams.

But in announcing that he would stay in the Senate and seek a new term in the Nov. 3 election, the last of the Kennedy brothers said he would not be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

Until the resort island accident Kennedy had ranked as a top prospect for the Democratic nomination.

The Massachusetts Supreme Court, at the request of Kennedy's lawyers, ordered the inquest held in closed session and the transcript locked away until all chance of prosecution had passed.

That restriction was cleared April 7 when Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis pronounced the case closed after a two-day grand jury investigation adjourned without reporting any findings.

But a court hassle over who should have the right to sell copies of the transcript intervened and produced a three-week delay in publication.

Sidney R. Lipman, the free lance stenographer who transcribed the proceedings, went to state, then federal courts, insisting that Massachusetts precedent and practice gave him the sole right to reproduce and sell copies of the transcript.

It was a best seller in stenographer's terms, and he wanted $802.20 a copy. Eighty-seven were ordered by news organizations and lawyers.

The court made copies available at cost, an estimated $75 apiece.

The tieup ended Monday when Joseph G. Tauro, chief judge of the Superior Court, took possession of the papers and simply ordered their release.

Lipman failed Tuesday in a last-minute appeal to the federal court to block release of the transcript.

The transcript covers the sworn testimony of Kennedy and 26 other witnesses who appeared before the 3 1/2 - day inquest to tell of July 18, 1969.

That was the night Kennedy and five other men went to a party at a rented Chappaquiddick cottage for six girls who had worked in the presidential campaign of the late Robert F. Kennedy.

In his tardy report to police, Kennedy said he took a wrong turn on an unfamiliar road, about 11:15 that night, as he drove Miss Kopechne from the party to board the ferry back to Edgartown.

Kennedy said he had no recollection of getting out of the car himself. He said he rose to the surface of Poucha Pond, then repeatedly dove to the car searching for Miss Kopechne.

The 38-year-old senator said he walked back to the party, and asked someone to return him to Edgartown and his hotel room.

"When I fully realized what had happened this morning, I immediately went to the police," Kennedy said in his handwritten police report.

He had first called his lawyer and made a trip back across the channel to Chappaquiddick.

In his televised account a week later, Kennedy disclosed that after leaving the accident scene he returned with Joseph Gargan, his cousin, and Paul Markham, a friend, political as-

MRS. WILLIAM KIENAST shares a moment alone with her older son, John, who will have to give up most of these solitary times when his quintuplet brothers and sisters provide a real case of sibling rivalry.

TIEDE

By TOM TIEDE

LIBERTY CORNER, N.J. —(NEA)—There's no doubt about it—that birth control experiment of Mr. and Mrs. William Kienast was something of a flop.

The Kienasts are the couple who, a year ago, agreed to take a new type fertility drug — one that doctors believed would assist pregnancy, but at the same time "control" the multiple birth risk of other similar potions.

But, uh, something went wrong. And what happened was this:

Amy, Sarah, Gordon, Abigail, and Edward.

Quintuplets. America's second living set and the sixth known anywhere. Born Feb. 24, in a 10-minute span, weighing between 3 1/4 and 4 1/2 pounds each.

In the Kienast's home area in rural New Jersey, the feeling is that it could have been worse. The day man at one of the two local gas stations says: "They might only of had four."

Everything considered, however, five may still prove to be the Kienasts' lucky number. Twins, triplets or even quadruplets would have merited only brief mentions in regional prints, before the routine anonymity of goo goo and doo doo set in. But with a "royal flush," as some here call it, the Kienasts are assured of a neighborhood and a nation forever and generously interested.

Already people have sent in gifts from around the town and country. Area volunteers donated an estimated $30,000 addition (seven rooms) to the Kienast country home. Baby-oriented manufacturing firms have expressed early interest in endorsement rights. A network television station has paid thousands of dollars for permission just to photograph the kids one time. A national magazine is about to pay thousands more for exclusive interviews.

And it's only getting started. The Kienasts haven't had time to buy cribs yet, but they've already had to hire a professional business manager.

Says the manager, Ferguson

O'Daly:

"There's always a lot of interest in a phenomenon of this kind. Some offers have been accepted, some are being put off until a more appropriate time. Our main thought is to do only those things which will serve the best interests of the five children."

Adds Mrs. Rhoda Rochat, a Kienast family neighbor:

"I don't know about the national offers of assistance, but I do know about some of the local ones. All of us are standing by ready to help in any way we can. The churches, the women's clubs — everybody. Most of us know what it's like to have kids—I've got eight of them myself — and so I don't think Peggy Jo (Mrs. Kienast) is going to have to worry about any help."

Let no one imagine the Kienasts will grow either rich or lazy as a result of their new children. According to the business manager, the five kids are to be rigidly protected from commercialism and overexposure. And the money already contracted for does not even cover birth expenses — such as a $200 per-child-per-day hospital bill which may wind up totaling as much as $60,000.

Still, in a very important sense other than parenthood, the Kienasts are lucky because their quintuplets will be cheaper, in physical labor and money, than any lesser multiple birth they might have had.

Mrs. Edna Sibiga is one who can testify to this. She lives in nearby North Plainfield. She's the proud, but haggard, mother of "only" quadruplets.

Says she:

"Well, there was a lot of interest in my four when I first had them. But it all died down pretty fast. I recall some neighbors pitched in to expand our home a little: they donated a lot of labor, and their hearts were in the right places. But after a bit it all kind of petered out."

"We wound up with a big mess here, a lot of expansion was left unfinished, and my husband and I were stuck with many bills we never expected to have. Since then, nobody has offered us anything. We've had to do it all on our own."

Mrs. Sibiga adds she's not complaining. Instead, with her four children calling from different rooms in her house, she wearily wishes the Kienasts well.

Bill and Peggy Jo Kienast will need the good wishes. For as generous as their

Nixon Plan Concerns Congressmen

By JOHN LENGEL

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's White House reorganization plan has brought congressional concern that it will raise a screen between the executive and legislative branches.

The proposal to establish an Office of Management and Budget and a Domestic Council to handle at-home affairs similar to the way the National Security Council deals with foreign problems was outlined Tuesday at a House government operations subcommittee hearing.

Reps. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, and Chet Holifield, D-Calif., indicated doubt at the hearing that the new organizations would be responsive to Congress.

"What concerns me is that the chairman of this council could be someone whose testimony could not be required by Congress," Brownsaid.

Holifield said "today we can get the Budget Bureau up here to get the straight of it, but the executive director of the council could claim executive privilege and not be called."

Behind the proposal is the frustration, expressed by several presidents, that plans, programs and policies are made with little or no guarantee that they can be carried out.

The OMB would fold the present Bureau of the Budget into a super agency that would, in the view of the planners, combine the latest techniques of management and cost effectiveness.

Roy L. Ash, president of Litton Industries and chief of the advisory group that drew up the proposal, told the subcommittee:

"No one adequately sees to it that organization form continues to fit the intended purpose. The result is to lock the executive branch into patterns of disorganization that persist into the future."

"Almost every president in this century has commented that resistance to organization changes is one of the chief obstacles to effective government," Ashsaid.

The Domestic Council would consolidate several existing White House groups into a series of study agencies and a permanent staff.

The reorganization plan did draw some support during the hearing.

Rep. John N. Erlenborn, R-Ill., said the President should be allowed to make whatever

Travelers Run Win Streak to 3

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas ran its Texas League winning streak to three with a 7-4 victory over Amarillo here Tuesday night.

Righthander Tim Lincecum relieved Traveler starter Al Hrabosky in the third and shut the door on Amarillo the rest of the way, permitting only three base runners. Lincecum, who earned his first victory of the season, gave up only two hits during his 6 1-3 innings.

Arkansas took the lead for good, 6-4, after scoring twice in the third inning. David Hernandez was the loser.

Righthander Travis King pitched a two-hitter and Albuquerque clobbered four Memphis pitchers for 12 hits as the Dodgers whipped the Blues 9-0 at Memphis Tuesday night.

Dallas-Fort Worth outlasted San Antonio 8-6 in other Texas League action. Shreveport's game at El Paso was postponed because of high winds and dust.

There are many good plays available to every bridge player. You may not understand three-suit squeezes, Deschappelles coups and the like, but if you ever play bridge at all you will understand what a finesse is.

You don't need to take finesesses but they bring in a lot of tricks as the years slide by. However, there is one kind of finesse to avoid. We call this play the practice finesse because it is a finesse that may cost you a trick and can't do you the least bit of good.

Steve Brody was the first man to jump off the Brooklyn Bridge and live. He took a chance. Don't be a Steve Brody at the bridge table.

If South is in a finessing mood he can play dummy's 10 of spades at trick one. The finesse will work but its success won't help South. In fact it will cost him his contract. The best he can do after that successful finesse will be to gather in three spades, two hearts, two diamonds and one club, provided West is unkind enough to refuse to win the first club trick.

South will wind up with a lot of good clubs in his own hand with no way to reach them.

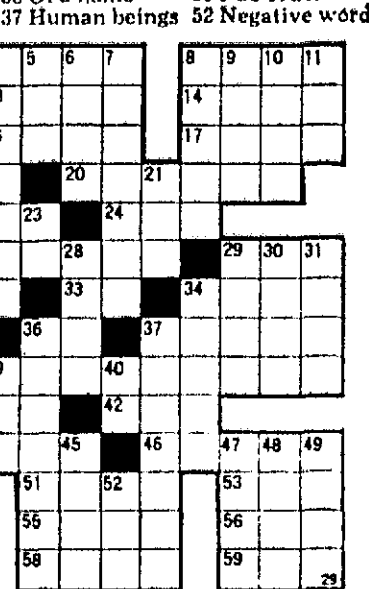

Now see what happens if South goes right up with dummy's ace of spades. He

High School Is Domain of Mr. Baker

By TAYLOR JOYCE
Fort Smith Times Record
FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Enter Room 211 at Southside High School and you enter the domain of C. Ray Baker, Arkansas and world history teacher and president-elect of the Arkansas Education Association.

You also are in the land of the "Grand Lollipop Award," where students fashion boats and dolls, where one may compile a "chivalry sheet," or produce a coloring book.

A student's progress is displayed at the front of the room on a chart adorned with red birds (for flying high), big stars (good), little stars (not bad) and shunks (which means: your work stinks).

Baker studied at the American University at Beirut, Lebanon and elsewhere, including the University of Cairo and the University of Jerusalem, the chief warring parties in the Middle East unrest.

When the course deals with the Middle East, Baker dons an Arabian costume he acquired in 1964.

Some of the projects might be considered more appropriate to an elementary school class, but Baker says "I'll use any method that will get a point across."

The lecture method in teaching is out, he said.

"There was a time when you could tell the students what you wanted them to learn, but now you've got to make the teaching interesting," he said. "You've got to spark a desire to learn."

A few years ago he converted his classroom floor into a body of water and filled it with boats for a re-enactment of the Battle of Actium, which marked the beginning of the Roman Empire.

The "chivalry sheet" was part of a study of the period when knighthood was in flower. Baker directed students to go about doing good, making notations of their deeds, and securing signatures to attest to their acts.

"Some of the deeds turned out to be ridiculous and there was some grumbling by the students, but while they were grumbling they also were learning something about chivalry," Baker said.

The Grand Lollipop Award capitalizes on competitive spirit. The award goes each month to the class which contributes the most to classroom discussions and activities, Baker said.

A native of Fort Smith, Baker is a graduate of the University of Arkansas.

He was president of the Fort Smith Classroom Teacher Association in 1964-69 and was district representative of the Arkansas Education Association board in 1966-69.

In 1968-69, Baker was president of the State Classroom Teachers Association and he will become president of the AEA on May 1.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Protecting You From Yourself

Strange as it may seem, the motorcycle helmet has become the center of a raging constitutional debate. It came about in the following manner:

A number of states, worried about the soaring rate of motorcycle accidents, have passed laws requiring every rider to wear a helmet. However, these laws are being challenged on the ground that the government cannot force a person—to do something he doesn't want to do.

Of course, the government does have a right, under the "police power," to step in when there is danger to others as well. Thus, compulsory vaccination was held constitutional long ago because the disease may endanger not only the person himself but also others in the community.

But in the case of motorcycle helmets, the primary purpose is not to protect somebody else but to protect the motorcyclist from his own negligence. That is, the government is trying to protect him from himself.

So far, a few courts have held the helmet requirement to be unconstitutional, on the theory that the individual should be "master of his fate and captain of his soul." As one opponent put it, if the government can go this far, it could just as logically require everybody to be in bed by 10 p.m.

On the other hand, a majority of courts have held these laws valid. They argue that there is at least some benefit to others, because a helmetless rider, if struck by bugs or flying pebbles, may lose control of his motorcycle and cause a collision.

Besides, they add, some safeguarding of the individual is justified, because if he is injured, he (or his family) may become a public burden.

"It is to the interest of the state," said one court, "to have strong, robust, healthy citizens." Of course, not all motorcyclists are concerned about the fine points of constitutional law. However, they all might take note of a harsh statistical fact: the vast majority of motorcycle deaths are the result of injuries to the head.

Q—What is the best treatment for a torn cartilage in the rib cage? Ultrasound treatments and an injection of cortisone didn't help.

A—This injury is notoriously slow to heal—more so than a fracture. Immobilization of the chest in a cast or by tight bandaging for 11 or 12 weeks is a wearisome business but it sometimes relieves the pain while the tear heals.

Q—I have taken Prolixin for five years. Does this drug affect the neck or eyes?

A—This tranquilizer should not be taken by anyone who is subject to convulsions or has a liver disease. Its side effects include uncontrollable circular movements of the eyes and arching backward of the neck.

Q—What is the best way to get rid of chapped lips?

A—Apply a thin layer of cold cream or petroleum jelly two or three times a day and avoid licking or biting your lips.

Some persons who complain of dizziness, headache, loss of weight, shortness of breath and easy fatigability suffer from iron overload or hemochromatosis. In victims of this disease, increased amounts of iron are absorbed from the digestive tract and deposited in the tissues. The disease is seen more often in men than in women and usually has its onset between the ages of 40 and 60.

Heredity appears to be a factor in some cases but in others the cause is a high intake of iron, especially in persons who drink large quantities of imported wine or who are addicted to certain iron tonics taken without a physician's advice. The daily dietary requirement for iron is 10 to 20 milligrams.

As the disease progresses, iron deposits give the skin a coppery hue and there is an associated diabetes. Sometimes called bronze diabetes.

Fortunately, this once-fatal disease can now be controlled by periodic bleeding and by giving such prescription drugs as diethylene triamine penta-acetic acid (DTPA) or deferoxamine (Desferal). These drugs form an insoluble iron compound in the digestive tract and allow the iron to pass out of the system without

Cockrill Says Democrats Out of Tune

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Sterling Cockrill Jr. of Little Rock, who last week switched from the Democratic party to the Republican party, said Tuesday night that the Democrats "were completely out of tune with the people."

Cockrill also told about 120 persons who attended a meeting of the Pulaski County Republican Committee that the impact of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's fight for a two party system will never be forgotten in Arkansas politics.

In his first talk with GOP supporters since he switched parties, Cockrill outlined 22 years of frustration in dealing with the Democratic hierarchy.

He said he had been an independent Democrat but found that "in order to get along, you have to go along."

"He prompted applause when he said, "Now I'm gonna have an opportunity to exercise this independence to make things better in my state."

Cockrill, who reportedly will run for lieutenant governor if Rockefeller seeks a third term and Lt. Gov. Maurice "Footsie" Britt does not seek reelection, headed off one potential campaign issue by noting that his wife has been an employee of the Arkansas House while he has been in the legislature.

He said, however, that his wife, Adrienne, got her job in 1953 and he was not elected to the House until 1956. "So this is nepotism in reverse," he said.

Mrs. Cockrill, who was in the audience with the couple's two daughters, said she would like to retain her legislative job but doesn't believe the predominantly Democratic House will permit her to do so.

Cockrill said Britt, a neighbor, was instrumental in his decision to switch parties. Britt was in the audience Tuesday night and got a standing ovation when introduced. He did not speak.

WHEELING IT

By BOB COCHNAR
NEA Automotive Editor

SAN FRANCISCO—(NEA) —There is no special reason why this column should be titled San Francisco other than the fact that I am here at the moment and, besides, it's a great—and extremely auto-conscious—town.

Chap named Miles Ottenheimer does a daily racing column for the Examiner. This is unusual, almost unique, because racing, most sports editors apparently believe, is hardly ever worth more than an occasional line except, of course, when a spectacular accident or the Indianapolis 500 takes place. And then the drippy phrases spew over the sports sections. Golly-gee-whiz-wow time again.

The Examiner's sports editor, Dave Burgin (who once shared the byline on this column), is one guy who knows—and believes—that motor racing happens to be the country's second-largest spectator sport and therefore deserves some regular attention.

After all, more than 50 million people paid money to see some form of racing last year. Which means, if nothing else, that there is an audience out there.

A lot of this professional noninterest in racing can probably be traced to tradition. Kids do not have pick-up games of 50 laps around the track.

On the other hand, persons under 20 probably know far more about cars than your average sports editor. I recall a talk I gave to a group of 12-year-old newspaper carrier boys and the questions they asked concerned tunnel-ported engines, drag co-efficients, negative camber and pushrod engines. So, believe, they know.

An Indy car 150-miler was held recently at the nearby Sears Point Raceway and racing's big guns, including Andretti, Gurney, Donohue and Unser, were on hand. It was northern California's introduction to United States

Auto Club championship car racing. Fortunately for the Sears Point management, the fans responded nicely.

The folks at Ontario Motor Speedway, the multimillion-dollar facility abuilding near Los Angeles, were also happy because the turnout confirmed earlier market studies which showed that Californians were ready and waiting for this kind of racing. Ontario opens its expensive doors on Labor Day with the California 500, which is being billed as the "Indy of the West."

And as far as style-setting is concerned, as California goes, so goes the nation. Remember that these "muscle" and high-performance cars Detroit finally discovered were actually being made by young Californians years ago.

New race tracks are sprouting everywhere. In the last year or so new facilities were opened or announced in Michigan, Texas, Delaware, New Jersey, California, Georgia, Pennsylvania, Alabama and Connecticut.

Television deals have been concluded with three major sanctioning organizations and television producers, perhaps running out of things to produce, are finally turning to motor racing.

Wednesday, April 29, 1970

Style-setters like Steve McQueen, Jim Garner, Paul Newman, Dick Smothers and Kirk Douglas have been spreading the word. And even comforting Walter Cronkite said recently that "sports car racing was the greatest sport." He should know, having piloted his own sports car for several years before his network got antsy.

It should be said that racing is not covered properly by most media because the sport has never bothered to explain itself to the uninitiated. The prevailing attitude has long been, "We racing people think our sport is great; if you do, fine and, if not, that's your problem."

Owners of multimillion-dollar facilities can hardly afford to adopt the same attitude. As businessmen, they know that what counts is how many people go through the turnstiles. And the media help build the gate.
